

Digital TV target date still 2011

TECHNOLOGY | The target date for switching off SA's analogue television broadcasts and running purely digital signals was still 2011, despite "raging debates" about SA's ability to achieve that, Communications Minister Sipiwe Nyanda said yesterday. The conversion process was a huge challenge, but regular reports to be issued by a "Digital Dzonga" advisory council launched yesterday would be used to monitor progress, he said. Lesley Stones
